

Wickham Market Weather Report for 2016

For the second year in succession the figures show that we have had a year very close to the 10-year average for both rainfall and temperatures.

We did enjoy a relatively good year for hours of sunshine, with only June well below what we might expect. However, this was compensated by a rather sunny August - not at all what has become the norm in recent years.

It was again a fairly mild Autumn with only 6 nights showing an air frost, until that very cold spell between Christmas and the New Year. We must certainly now assume that mild Autumns are the norm.
